

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

INTRODUCTION

Washington, D. C., the Capital of the United States, situated on the banks of the beautiful, historic Potomac River, is almost indescribable. Its majesty and wonders can only be appreciated by seeing them. For this reason, therefore, we present this little booklet to our guests, hoping that it will be of valuable assistance in pointing out to the stranger within our gates the principal places of interest.

LANSBURGH & BROTHER

Washington, D. C.

By A. E. SEYMOUR, Secretary

Washington Chamber of Commerce

ORE than 120 years ago Washington became the permanent seat of the Government of the United States. Its founders planned to lay broad and deep the foundations of the republic which is to endure while time lasts; to build a city beautiful and delightful to reside in, the future seat of learning, of art, of diplomacy of world politics; but we can not believe they had in mind a country and a city such as exists today.

When the act was passed making the city of Washington the Capital of the Nation, no one had ever seen a steamboat, a railroad, an iron plow, or a friction match, or thought of an electric telegraph, or telephone, or dreamed of an automobile or the sending of wireless messages. It was thirty years after the Capital was established before the first railroad was built.

Call to mind the wonderful development of our country. Our population has increased from about 5,000,000 to nearly 110,000,000. Our wealth as a nation has enhanced to more than $250,000,000,000, making us by far the richest in the world. Products of our mines and manufactures exceed those of any other land or people. Our laboring classes are blessed with more comforts and with fairer prospects for themselves and their children than ever elsewhere have existed. The number of States has increased from 16 to 48, and the people have multiplied twenty-two fold. Our territory has grown from 900,000 square miles in 1800 to over 3,500,000 square miles. Along the lines of invention and progress which ultimately affect the life and civilization of the world, triumphs have been achieved and wonders accomplished, the equal, if not the superior, of all the former centuries combined.

Washington has grown from 3,000 population in 1800 to nearly a half million in 1922. From a straggling village it has grown into a great metropolitan city, with beautiful homes, magnificent public buildings, wide avenues, splendid drives and parks.

This is the Nation's city! In this city we receive the official representatives of every civilized nation upon the earth; men in high standing in the political and social life of the nations they represent. To meet these representatives and see the Capital City, the most distinguished people from every land are almost daily visitors.

Here are the rulers of the Nation, those who make and those who interpret and those who execute the laws. Here are the great departments where the Nation's affairs are transacted; where public policy, internal and foreign, is determined, and the national progress is guided. Where, then, so much as here, can the stranger expect to find so excellent a representation of our people, of our institutions, and of those arts which are the measure of a nation's wealth and civilization?

No title which can be applied to the National Capital is more appropriate, more truly descriptive than the one—"Washington, the City Beautiful." Its growth in heapty has kept pace with its growth in population, in importance, in political leadership. The Capital of the Republic is the city unique and beautiful. Other nations have fixed their capitals in the crowded urban centers of commerce, and they passess the splenders that opulance has gathered round them. Our Capital, like our Nation, was made to subserve a principle, and It has grown up in the midst of the memorates and associations of the principle which it represents.

in the paved streets and avenues decorated with homes and churches which are the triumphs of architecture; in the open areas bright with flowers and fountains; in the circles and parks adorned with statuary and monuments of our heroes on land and sea, of men of science and letters, of our statesmen and jurists; in the thousands of stately trees which adorn its streets; in its substantial business houses and the long succession of splendid public buildings; in its schools, colleges, universities, gatheries, and museums; in the great monument to the "Father of His ('mutry''; in the t'apitol, already the noblest structure in the world, yet destined to be tairer within and grander without; in that magnificent memorial building excepted in tribute to our martyred President—in all these crowning glories our countrymen acclaim Washington as their Mexea.

Washington has more than 6,000 acres in public parks and reservations, and in the magnificance of its shade trees it stands alone—unique—among American cities. Nearty, 110,000 beautiful and aplended trees are planted along the curbs in the streets of our city.

Windington, the city beautiful—we observe it not alone for its physical beauty, but for the beauty of its birtoric associations which stir American prids, and the beautiful memories of the wise and values who have made it the Great American City.

THE CAPITOL

The Capitol is located on what is known as Capitol III, about one and a half piles from the White House. Upon arrival in Washington, the building can be seen directly in front of the Union Station, about three blocks away. For the benefit of the general guidit the Capitol is open to visitors from 3 A. M. to 430 B. M. Competent, authorized guides are in attendance during these bours, who for a nominal fee, will conduct visitors through and explain all points of interest to sighteness. It is to your advantage to use these guides.

The equival building was constructed of Virginia sanistone, manical vinte, the cornerstand had by President Vashington, September 18, 1798. with action, color and the excitement of world transactions. The New Willard is in the midst of this eventful life—a step from the Capitol. It presents in its dining rooms and lourges a picture of international brilliancy and in its sleeping apartments, the quiet comfort which is so necessary.

The New Willard embodies also a spirit of hospitality which emphasizes the personal attention to each guest. It is Washington's great hotel.

Paintings in the rotunda:

Landing of Columbus on San Salvador, Oct. 12, 1492. (By Vanderlyn.) Discovery of the Mississippi by De Soto, 1541. (W. H. Powell.)

Baptism of Pocahontas, Jamestown, Va., 1613. (By John G. Chapman.) Embarkation of the Pilgrims from Delft-Haven, July 22, 1620. (Weir.)

The Declaration of Independence, Philadelphia, July 4, 1776. (By John Trumbull.)

The Surrender of Burguyone, Saratoga, Oct. 17, 1777. (By Trumbull.)

The Surrender of Cornwallis, Yorktown, Va., Oct. 19, 1781. (By Trumbull.)

The Resignation of Gen. Washington, Dec. 23, 1783. (Trumbull.)

Above the paintings are sculptured portraits of Cabot, Raleigh, Columbus and La Salle. Above the doors are sculptures of the landing of the Pilgrims, William Penn's conference with the Indians, Pocahontas rescuing Capt. John Smith, and Daniel Boone in conflict with the Indians.

The rotunda frieze, 65 feet above the floor, makes a circle of 300 feet around the walls, illustrating important periods of history in America.

The canopy is 180 feet above the rotunda floor and is 65 feet in diameter. The canopy was painted by Brumidi, portraying the Apotheosis of Washington. Yust below the canopy, the whispering gallery. Two persons standing on opposite sides, 65 feet apart, may distinctly hear one another's whisper.

In the rotunda of the Capitol is where the Inauguration ceremonies are held. It is one of the most impressive and brilliant affairs.

The National Statuary Hall

The National Statuary Hall was formerly the Hall of Representatives. statues in the hall are of: Roger Williams and Nathaniel Greene, of Rhode Island; Samuel Adams, of Massachusetts; Ethan Allen, of Vermont; Stephen F. Austin, of Texas; Thomas Hart Benton, of Missouri; F. P. Blair, of Missouri; Charles Carroll, of Maryland; John C. Calhoun, of South Carolina; Lewis Cass, of Michigan; George Clinton, of New York; Jacob Collamer, of Vermont; J. L. M. Curry, of Alabama; Robert Fulton, of Pennsylvania; James A. Garfield, of Ohio; John Hanson, of Maryland; James Harlan, of Iowa; Sam Houston, of Texas; John J. Ingalls, of Kansas; John E. Kenna, of West Virginia; William King, of Maine; S. J. Kirkwood, of Iowa; Philip Kearney, of New Jersey, Robt. E. Lee, of Virginia; Robt. R. Livingston, of New York; Pere Marquette, of Wisconsin; O. P. Morgan, of Indiana; Alexander Ramsey, of Minnesota; Roger Sherman, of Connecticut; John Peter Gabriel Muhlenberg, of Pennsylvania; James Shields, of Illinois; George L. Shoup, of Idaho; John Stark, of New Hampshire; Richard Stockton, of New Jersey; Frances Elizabeth Willard, of Illinois; John Winthrop, of Massachusetts; Jonathan Trumbull, of Connecticut; Zebulon B. Vance, of North Carolina; Lew Wallace, of Indiana; and George Washington, of Virginia.

Acoustics: The hall has some extraordinary acoustic properties. These peculiarities were a source of great trouble in days gone by but are now demonstrated by the guides, much to the amusement of visitors.

The Hall of Representatives

The Speaker's desk is of chiseled white marble and occupies an elevated position in the center of the south side. In front of the Speaker's desk are the desks of the clerks and reporters. On the right of the Speaker's desk, the Sergeant at Arms, on the left the Official Door Keeper.

The seats of the Senators and Representatives are arranged in a semicircle. On the desk of each Senator and Representative is a silver plate with the occupant's name engraved upon it. On either side of the Speaker's desk are full-length portraits of Washington and LaFayette. These paintings were presented by LaFayette.

Over the main entrance is the famous clock, whose hands are turned back, when necessary, on the last day of Congress, so that the hour of adjournment may not be marked before the business of the House is completed.

Opening off from the hall back of the Speaker's desk are the House lobby and the members' retiring room. On the walls of these rooms will be found paintings of former Speakers.

Facing the east stairway is a marble statue of Thomas Jefferson. On the first landing a picture of "First Reading of the Emancipation Proclamation" before the Cabinet, Sept. 22, 1862. Here are many portraits of famous men of history.

At the foot of the west stairway is a bronze bust of Chippewa, Chief Be-She-Ka. Also paintings of historical interest.

Committee Rooms

The committee rooms opening off from the House corridors are: The Ways and Means room, the Appropriation rooms and the Military Affairs room. In the basement are the Territories room, Indian Affairs room and Agricultural room.

The Supreme Court room is patterned after a Greek model. The chair of the Chief Justice is in the center, with those of the eight associates on either side. Outside of the space reserved for council are seats for spectators. Ranged about the walls is a series of busts of the former Chief Justices. The Senate Chamber is 113 feet long by 82 feet wide, surrounded by galleries which are used for spectators. The President (Vice-President of the United States) presides over the Senate; to his right is the chair of the Sergeant at Arms. To the left of the President is the chair of the Assistant Doorkeeper. The walls are decorated in gold arabesques and the ceiling is filled with symbols of War, Peace. Union. Progress, the Arts, Sciences and Industries. Around the walls are marble busts of the former Presidents of the Senate. In the main corridors are paintings of Washington and Adams, Patrick Henry, Thomas Jefferson, Daniel Webster, Henry Clay and John C. Calhoun, Charles Summer, and W. B. Allison. The seventeen stars on the mahogany hall clock represent the original seventeen States. This clock has been in the Capitol since 1802.

The Senators' reception room is known as the Marble room, it being constructed entirely of that material.

The Vice-President's room is used by him when presiding over the Senate and such other occasions that are necessary.

The President's room is for the use of the President of the United States on his visits to the Capitol. It is decorated with portraits of President Wahington and his first cabinet, Knox, Randolph and Osgood. There is also a bronze bust of McKinley.

THE LIBRARY OF CONGRESS

The Library of Congress is directly opposite, and the grounds adjoin the United States Capitol. The Library building faces west on First Street, and the outer walls have a frontage upon four streets (First, East Capitol, Second and B Streets). The grounds and residences upon them cost $585,000. The building was completed in 1897. The net cost, exclusive of site, was $6,032,124.54. The original architectural plans were prepared by the firm of Smithmeyer & Pelz, but were later modified by Edward Pearce Casey.

The building is of the Italian Renaissance order of architecture; it has three stories and a dome and is in area 470 by 340 feet, covering nearly three and one-half acres of ground, with four large inner courts 150 by 75 to 100 feet and nearly 2,000 windows, which make it the best lighted library in the world.

The building consists of a great central rotunda, which is used as the reading room, from which radiate book stacks and which is inclosed in a parallelogram of galleries and pavilions. The building material used for the exterior walls is white granite from New Hampshire and for the inner courts Maryland granite and white enameled bricks.

On the ground floor are the copy-right office, reading room for the blind and superintendent's office. The first floor contains the reading room, the Librarian's room, periodical reading room, Senators' and Representatives' reading room and map room. The pavilions and galleries of the second floor are used for the exhibition of engravings and other collections, including rare books, first editions and portraits of the Presidents of the United States and other notable people.

The dome is finished in black copper with panels gilded with a thick coating of gold leaf. The cresting of the dome above the lantern, 195 feet from the ground, terminates in a gilded finial, representing the torch of Science, ever burning.

All of the windows of the corner pavilion and of the west facade have carved heads representing the several races of men.

The bronze fountain by Hinton Perry represents the court of Neptune, with tritons, sea horses, sea nymphs, frogs, serpents and turtles.

The Library of Congress is open to visitors on week days from 9 A. M. to 10 P. M. and on Sundays and holidays from 2 P. M. to 10 P. M. In order to obtain the full benefit of the beautiful rotunda and the magnificent galleries and pavilions we advise visiting the Library in the evening.

THE WHITE HOUSE

The home of the President of the United States is located on Pennsylvania Avenue Northwest at Sixteenth Street, immediately adjoining the Treasury and the State, War and Navy Buildings. Upon viewing the White House, visitors are immediately impressed with the simplicity and stately dignity of the entire building. If viewed from Pennsylvania Avenue one sees but a few columns of the portico, as the view is obstructed by the magnificent trees that almost entirely surround the building. That the White House is becoming as the home of the President of the United States is evident both from situation, character and surroundings.

The building is constructed of Virginia freestone; it is 170 feet in length, 86 feet in depth and consists of a rustic basement, two stories and an attic, the whole surmounted by an ornamental balustrade. The north front has a portico of lofty Ionic columns, forming a porte cochere and the south a colonnaded balcony.

It was the first public building erected as the new seat of government. The architect was James Hoban. George Washington selected the site and laid the cornerstone October 13, 1792, and lived to see the building completed. It has been said that in company with his wife he inspected the entire structure but a few days before his death.

The house was fired by the British troops during Madison's administration in 1814 and only the four walls were left standing. In order to obliterate the marks of fire the stone was painted white and since that time the Executive Mansion has been known as the White House. During 1902-03 alterations and additions were made and now an esplanade leads to the new Executive Offices which immediately adjoin the White House proper, while the public entrance is through a colonnade on the east.

The more well known rooms of the White House are the East Room or State Parlor, where the receptions are held; the Blue Room, which is used as the President's Reception Room; the Green Room and the Red Room. The State Dining Room is also an interesting place to see, as in this room are held the three official functions of the year in diplomatic Washington, namely, the dinner to the Diplomatic Corps, the Cabinet dinner and the dinner to the Supreme Court of the United States.

To the south of the White House is a beautiful lawn upon the slopes of which the children of Washington repair for their egg rolling on Easter Monday.

Visitors may secure entrance to the most interesting parts of the White House daily except Sunday from 10 A. M. to 2 P. M.

STATE, WAR AND NAVY BUILDING

This beautiful building is situated at Pennsylvania Avenue and Seventeenth Street N. W., and covers an area of about four and one-half acres. Here are located the Departments of State, War and Navy, as indicated by its name.

There are many things of interest to the visitor to be seen here, such as many articles of historical value, etc.

Open to visitors from 10 A. M. to 2 P. M. daily except Sunday.

THE TREASURY

The Treasury of the United States is located on Fifteenth and Pennsylvania Avenue, at the intersection of New York Avenue. The building was constructed at a cost of over $6,000,000.00. The most interesting part of the Treasury—the vaults—contain hundreds of millions of dollars.

The building is open to visitors from 10 A. M. to 2 P. M.

THE ZOOLOGICAL PARK

The National Zoological Park is situated in Rock Creek Park, a wonderful reservation in Northwest Washington. Here is quartered a large collection of living animals, most of which are caged, in as nearly as possible their natural state. The Park was originally established for the purpose of breeding and caring for a large number of animals, both American and foreign, that were rapidly becoming extinct. Later, however, the public manifested such interest in the work that it developed into the magnificent exhibition park that it now is.

It is maintained as a part of the Smithsonian Institution, and of course the same work of preserving breeds of animals which are dying out, is still being conducted. Well heated buildings have been built for quartering those animals used to tropical temperatures during the winter months.

Running through the Zoological Park is a branch of Rock Creek. Along this are the Water Fowl, Nutria, Beaver, Seal, etc., in a most interesting setting. Along the crest of the little valley which the stream has formed, the bears are placed. Their dens are blasted out of solid rock and made into the finest examples of their kind in the country. In the more wooded sections of the reservations are placed the Deer, Antelope, Llamas, etc. A visit to this wonderful exhibition of animals will prove most fascinating and educational.

THE NATIONAL MUSEUM

The main building, known as the "New National Museum," is situated on the Mall between 7th and 12th Streets, and is a magnificent structure, four stories in height. It was erected at a cost of about $3,500,000.

It contains a large Natural History collection, including the famous Roosevelt animals, the National Gallery of Art, an immense exhibit of the Great War (including the uniforms and equipment of the fighting nations, original war posters and paintings) and many educational and interesting deposits for the intelligent visitor.

The other building, which is known as the "Old National Museum," contains Antiquarian and "evolution" exhibits. Here one may study the history of Our Country practically without the use of text books. The collections of uniforms, personal equipment, documents, etc., of America's great men are most complete. There are also deposited exhibits of the evolution of the steamboat, clock, aeroplane, locomotive, telephone and telegraph, rifle, camera, etc., from practically the first one to be made up to modern models.

THE SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

This Institution was established by statute in 1846 under the terms of the will of Sir James Smithson, who bequeathed his fortune to the United States in 1826 to found an Institution "for the increase and diffusion of knowledge among men."

The Institution maintains a library composed mostly of works on Ethnology and Etymology, records of learned Societies, etc., which numbers over 300,000 volumes. The building is situated on the Mall near the National Museum, and is architecturally of the Renaissance period. Aside from the Library there are many things contained there in which are of interest to the visitor, among which are exhibits of the art of printing, bookbinding, etc.

The National Museum, the National Gallery of Art, the International Exchange Service, the Bureau of American Ethnology, the National Zoological Park, the Astrophysical Observatory, all come under the jurisdiction of this Institution.

WASHINGTON MONUMENT

THE cornerstone of the Washington Monument was laid July 4, 1848, and construction was continued to a height of 154 feet. In 1878 the work was resumed and the monument completed to a height of 555 feet 4 inches December 6th, 1884. The total cost was one million one hundred eighty-seven thousand seven hundred ten dollars and thirty-one cents. Three hundred thousand of this was raised by individual free-will offerings and the balance was appropriated by Congress.

The Monument was designed by Robert Mills.

THE CORCORAN GALLERY OF ART

THE CORCORAN GALLERY OF ART

William Wilson Corcoran, a wealthy Washingtonian, decided early in life that at least one-half of his financial accumulations should be used solely for the purpose of encouraging American genius in the production and presentation of works pertaining to the Fine Arts and kindred subjects. Thus, the Corcoran Gallery of Art has its existence through the altruism of this useful citizen, and it is not a part of the Government, as is sometimes thought. Its trustees, however, are given a place in the Congressional Directory.

This splendid gallery is located on 17th Street and New York Avenue, facing the grounds of the Executive mansion. The building was designed by the famous Ernest Flagg, of New York. The collections are estimated to be worth over $1,500,000 and are particularly representative of American artists. In addition the Gallery has examples of French, Dutch, English and other schools. The sculptures include casts from Antique works and the Renaissance, and modern works. There are originals in both marble and bronze. There are over one hundred original bronzes by Antoine-Louis Barye.

In addition to the work of collecting and exhibiting the works of Art, there is an excellent school of Fine Arts conducted in the Corcoran building. For information concerning Copying, Studying, etc., apply to the Principal of the Art School.

NORTHWEST

No. 1. 2618, 2620 K Street.—Built by Robert Peter, one of the "Original Proprietors" of Washington City, and who married Mrs. Washington's granddaughter, Martha Parke Custis. When occupied by them, General Washington was a frequent visitor. Later occupied by British Ministers, Anthony Merry, Francis James Jackson and David Montagu Erskine. "Tom" Moore, the Irish poet, was the guest here of Mr. Merry in 1804.

No. 2. 2506, 2508 K Street.—Also built by Robert Peter. One of these houses was occupied in 1815 by Anthony St. John Baker, Chargé d'Affairs of Great Britain, and by G. C. Antrobus, who succeeded him in that office.

No. 3. 2300 K Street.—St. Ann's Infant Asylum. The original building was occupied by British Ministers, Henry S. Fox and John F. Crampton. Mr. Fox is buried in Congressional Cemetery in this city.

No. 4. 2107 to 2117 Pennsylvania Avenue.—Built about 1795, and known as the "Six Buildings." In 1800, 2107 was the first Navy Office, and here Samuel Houston, Governor of Tennessee, United States Senator, and first President of Texas, had his residence. Others who resided in these buildings were Gen. James Wilkinson, General-in-Chief of the Army, 1796; John Francis Mercer, first president, C. and O. Canal Co.; James Madison, "father of the Constitution," and President of the United States, when Secretary of State; and Richard Rush, the eminent statesman.

No. 5. 2017 I Street.—James Monroe resided here when elected President, and for a few months after his inauguration. Rt. Hon. Stratford Canning, Minister from Great Britain; Baron de Mareschal, Minister from Austria; Gilbert Granger, Charles Francis Adams, and Cleveland Abbe, founder of the Weather Bureau, also resided here.

DUPONT FOUNTAIN (Dupont Circle)

No. 6. 1901 to 1913 Pennsylvania Avenue.-Completed about 1800, and known as the "Seven Buildings." The corner, 1901, was the State Department when John Marshall was Secretary. James Madison occupied it as the Executive Mansion, 1815-17; Elbridge Gerry and Martin Van Buren when Vice-presidents and Robert J. Walker when Secretary of the Treasury. In this row also lived General Turreau de Garambonville, Minister of France, 1804, and Gen. John Armstrong, George W. Campbell, James K. Spaulding, and Benjamin W. Crowninshield, cabinet officers. In 1816, house numbered 1905, became the residence of Jose Correa da Serra, first Portuguese Minister to the United States. In 1864, it became the first residence in Washington of Chevalier Joseph Bertinatti, Minister Resident of Italy.

- No. 10. New Hampshire Avenue and Corcoran Street, Northeast corner.—Rear Admiral William T. Sampson lived and died in this house.
- No. 11. 1323 Eighteenth Street.—Residence of Robert Lansing, former Secretary of State.
- No. 12. 1717 Rhode Island Avenue.—Edward Douglass White, Chief Justice U. S. Supreme Court, resided here.
- No. 13. 1728 I Street.—Charles Goodyear, inventor of the process of vulcanizing rubber, lived in this house.
 - No. 14. 1736 I Street.—Residence of Jefferson Davis while 'U. S. Senator.
- No. 15. New York Avenue and Eighteenth Street, The Octagon.—Built in 1800 by John Tayloe, from designs by Dr. William Thornton. During the early part of 1814 it was occupied by M. Serurier, the French Minister. In 1814-15 it was occupied as the Executive Mansion by President Madison, and here the Treaty of Ghent was signed. Mrs. Madison, "then in the meridian of life and queenly beauty," while the treaty was under consideration by the President and the Cabinet, held a reception here. Now the headquarters of the American Institute of Architects.
- No. 16. Pan American Union Building, Seventeenth and B Streets.—Composed of twenty-one republics of North and South America, having for its objects "Peace, Friendship and Commerce." Andrew Carnegie contributed $750,000 toward the erection of the building. Here, in the early days, was located David Burnes' cottage, a modest home on the bank of the Tiber, a tributary of the Potomac, then forming at this point a small bay. Burnes was one of the Original Proprietors of the city, and his farm included parts of the White House grounds and The Mall and both sides of the Avenue to the Capitol. He died in 1799, leaving his daughter, Marcia, sole heir. She became the wife of Gen. John P. Van Ness, and here they built a mansion, from designs by Latrobe, enclosed the grounds, and called it Mansion Square. This home was equipped with new conveniences and was considered the finest house in the United States. The square was acquired by the Government, April 17, 1907.
- No. 17. 2100 Sixteenth Street.—Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes lived here when nominated for the Presidency.
- No. 18. 1618 New Hampshire Avenue, residence of Perry Belmont.—The Prince of Wales, on his visit to Washington, November 11 to 14, 1919, with part of his staff, was quartered here.

William Tecumseh Sherman in the presence of President Fillmore and cabinet, Daniel Webster, Henry Clay and others.

No. 22. 22 Jackson Place.—Temporary residence of President Roosevelt during remodeling of the White House in 1902.

No. 23. 28 Jackson Place.—Commodore Decatur, hero of the War with Tripoli, built this house in 1819; architect, Latrobe, the master mind of our unequaled Capitol. Decatur died here in 1820, the day of his duel with Commodore Barron. It was Decatur who was the author of the famous toast: "Our country! In her intercourse with foreign nations, may she always be in the right; but our country, right or wrong." After his death the home was leased to Baron Tuyl, the Minister of Russia, who left Washington early in 1825. Henry Clay, Martin Van Buren, and Edward Livingston followed in order, when it again became the home of foreign ministers, Sir Charles Vaughan and Baron Hyde de Neuville. In 1836 it was sold to John Gadsby for $12,000, and was subsequently occupied by Joseph Gales, Howell Cobb, George M. Dallas, and Judah P. Benjamin. At the close of the Civil War it was purchased by Gen. E. F. Beale, and General and Mrs. Grant were frequently his guests.

No. 24. 14 Jackson Place.—M. le Comte de Menou, Chargé d'Affaires of France, 1822, and Sir Charles R. Vaughan, Minister of Great Britain, 1834, resided here. Prominent statesmen who made it their home were: Secretary of the Treasury John C. Spencer; Secretaries of the Navy Smith Thompson, Samuel L. Southard, and Levi Woodbury; Vice-president Schuyler Colfax and Senator William C. Rives. Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, M. C., was also among its occupants.

No. 25. 800 Sixteenth Street.—In this house lived John Hay, writer, poet, private secretary and biographer of Lincoln, Secretary of State, and Ambassador to Great Britain.

No 26. 1611 H Street.—The original building was erected about 1825 by Thomas Swann, U. S. District Attorney for the District of Columbia, 1821 to 1833, and father of Governor Swann of Maryland. It was presented to Daniel Webster, American statesman, who made it his home. During the Civil War it was occupied by the Marquis de Montholon, Minister of France. It became the property of William W. Corcoran, banker and philanthropist, who remodeled and enlarged it as it is today. Now owned by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

No. 27. 1525 H Street.—Built by Matthew St. Clair Clark, Clerk of the House of Representatives. Its residents have included Lord Alexander Baring Ashburton, envoy to settle by treaty the Northwestern Boundary question, 1842; John Nelson, Attorney General, 1843; and the Right Honorable Richard Pakenham, Minister of Great Britain, 1846.

No. 28. Fifteenth and K Streets, northwest corner.—William M. Evarts, distinguished lawyer and statesman and United States counsel at the Geneva tribunal in 1872, resided here.

No. 29. Vermont Avenue between H and I Streets.—Veterans' Bureau, here formerly stood the Arlington Hotel, where Dom Pedro, President Diaz, King Kalakaua, Li Hung Chang, and many foreigners were guests. Others included Charles Sumner, William L. Marcy, Secretary of State; Lewis Cass, Secretary of State; Presidents Buchanan and Benjamin Harrison, and Gen. Joseph Wheeler. The present structure was completed in 1919.

No. 30. 1520 H Street, Cosmos Club.—Known as Dolly Madison House. Here Mrs. Madison, widow of the President, held social court. It was a neutral place of meeting for Lord Ashburton and Mr. Webster to argue on the Ashburton Treaty, as both lived nearby. Also home of Admiral Charles Wilkes, the Antarctic explorer.

No. 59. 1313 to 1321 Four-and-a-lalf Street, "Wheat Row."—First range or row built in the Federal City, 1793. E acted by the syndicate, Robert Morris, Financer of the American Revolution; John Nicholson, Comptroller General of Pennsylvania, and James Greenleaf, merchant and American consul at Amsterdam. This syndicate, and Mr. Law and Daniel Carroll, of Duddington, built about all the places which were in readiness for the Government when it come to Washington in 1800.

No. 66. 1252 Sixth Street.—Used as his home, in 1795, by Thomas Law, son of the Lord Bishop of Carlisle, who was the brother of Baron Ellenborugh. Mr. Law was ruler of a populous district of East India; he was talented and eccentric. He invested his fortune in Washington lots and improvements. His wife was Elizabeth Park Custis, granddaughter of Mrs. Washington.

NORTHEAST

No. 61. 21, 23, 25 First Street, "The Brick Capitol."—Erected in 1815 to accommodate Congress, which met here from 1815 to 1819. James Monroe was here inaugurated President on a temporary portico erected in front for the purpose. Here Benton, Clay, Webster, Calhoun, Randolph, and Jackson began their memorable record. From its doors John Randolph and Henry Clay went forth to fight their duel, and here John C. Calhoun died in 1850. During the Civil War it was used as a prison for political offenders. Now the property of the National Woman's Party.

To the rear of these buildings, on the A Street side, is the site of an old hotel, first known as Tunnecliffe's, where President Adams stopped in June, 1800, when he visited Washington in "a chariot of four."

SOUTHEAST

No. 62. New Jersey Avenue and C Street.—The Varnum. Originally a range of three dwellings built by Thomas Law, about 1798. The corner was Conrad and McMunn's when the Government moved here in 1800, and here Thomas Jefferson, Vice-President, and Albert Gallatin were guests. It became one of the five Stelle's Hotels about the Capitol Square.

No. 63. 206 Pennsylvania Accente.—In this building the United States Supreme Court met in 1814.

MALL

No. 64. Smithse can Institution, in the Mall, at Tenth Street.—Erected in ac cordance with the will of James Smithson of England for the "increase and diffusion of knowledge among men." Constructed, 1847-1852, of Seneca freestone, from designs by James Renwick, Jr. It is of the later Norman, or Lombard style as it prevailed in the twelfth century. Joseph Henry, the first scientific secretary, resided in the east wing from 1854 until his death, being succeeded by Spencer F. Baird, naturalist. Here Secretary Langley carried on his investigations in

POTOMAC PARK

No. 65. Here is the large bowler known as the Key of Keys, where, according to tradition, Braddock landed at the beginning of his expedition to Fort Duquesne in 1755. Among the adornments of the park are a large number of Japanese flowering cherry trees, a gift from Japan to the United States, which show in their full glory in the springtime.

WEST WASHINGTON

No. 66. Thirty-Sixth Street and Prospect Avenue, southwest corner.—Mrs. E. D. E. N. Southworth, authoress, resided and died in this cottage.

No. 67. 3314 O Street, Bodisco Mansion.—Residence of Alexander de Bodisco, Minister of Russia. High fashion—never since eclipsed—attended his marriage to Harriet Beall, daughter of Brooke Williams. He was fifty, she sixteen.

No. 68. 3221 M Street.—In 1795, the residence of Dr. William Thornton, who served as City Commissioner and first Commissioner of Patents and was the architect of the U. S. Capitol.

No. 69. Thirty-first, Thirty-second, and O Streets, and Tudor Place.—Built about 1805 by Thomas Peter, from plans by Dr. William Thornton. General Lafayette was among the distinguished guests entertained here. Home of Commodore Kennon at the time he lost his life on board the ill-fated steamship Princeton, March 1, 1844. Said to have been the last place visited in Washington by Robert E. Lee. Inherited by Britannia Wellington Kennon, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Peter and grand-daughter of John Parke Custis, and owned by her for many years. It still remains in the family. Said to contain many heirlooms of the Washington family.

No. 70. 2921 to 2929 M Street. The Old Union Hotel, also known as "Union Tavern."—The original building was erected in 1796 and destroyed by fire in 1832. It

Notable guests here have included Mr. Murray, the first British Minister to this country; Louis Philippe, Count Volney, Baron Humboldt, Fulton (the inventor), Talleyrand, Jerome Bonaparte, Washington Irving, General St. Clair, Lorenzo Dow, Francis Scott Key, John Randolph, and others. It was a favorite stopping place for Congressmen in the early twenties, and was besides the general residence of the foreign ministers. In recent years it has been remodeled, but a large part of the building erected in 1836 is still intact.

No. 71. 3017 N Street.—Residence of Newton B. Baker when Secretary of War.

No. 72. Q Street, between Twenty-seventh and Twenty-eighth Streets, Rittenhouse Home.—This mansion, known as Bellevue, was built about 1800. Charles Carroll, who styled himself Charles Carroll of Bellevue, acquired it in 1813.

1801 I Street.—Built and occupied by Richard Wallach, Mayor of the City. Here was held the first International American Conference. It was at this Conference that the Pan-American Union was established. Representatives of the American Republics were present. The delegates of the United States included Hon. James G. Blaine, Andrew Carnegie, and Hon. Henry G. Davis.

THE WASHINGTON CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The Washington Chamber of Commerce is recognized as the great commercial and civic organization of the District of Columbia. It is a healthy, prosperous and rapidly growing organization. Its membership is made up of the leading business and professional men and women of the National Capital. Its constitution declares its purposes to be as follows: "Our aim is to promote the general welfare of the citizens of the District of Columbia, and to advance their business interests by the exercise of concerted thought and activity; to promote and nurture commercial and manufacturing enterprises; to bring the business men of Washington into more frendly intercourse and closer relationship."

The qualifications for membership are as follows: "Any reputable person interested in the general welfare of the District of Columbia shall be eligible to membership. Any firm or corporation may become a member, designating some partner or member to represent it.

The Chamber is rapidly growing in numbers and influence. It is earnestly engaged in all activities for the betterment of Washington. It has always been a consistent and earnest support of the movement which is about to give the city a convenient and commodious Convention Hall. It is closely affiliated with the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, and, through its Secretary, with the National Association of Commercial Organization Secretaries, thus keeping closely in touch with all civic and commercial activities not only in Washington but elsewhere.

THE M. & M. ASSOCIATION

The cosmopolitan character of the National Capital is further emphasized in its great retail, jobbing and manufacturing interests.

Washington particularly prides itself on the stability and alertness of its retail business houses.

Great department and specialty stores for every line house stocks of merchandise that will not only meet every requirement of the visitor during their stay, but provide numberless things suitable for gifts, as well as more substantial things.

STATUE OF GENERAL W. T. SHERMAN Sherman Plaza, South of Treasury

It is a commonly accepted fact that anything from Washington, the Nation's Capital, is received with pleasure.

The great business interests of Washington, as such, find their rallying point in the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, whose offices are in Suite 400, The Evening Star Building, 11th Street and Pennsylvania avenue N. W., telephone, Main 4161.

It is not only the desire, but the function of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association to direct and develop trade extension for Washington, but to do it on a basis that will, for all time, mark Washington—as is the case today—as a market place where confidence is never broken.

Visitors desiring information on the trade channels of Washington, the Nation's Capital, are invited to address the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association.

THE WASHINGTON BOARD OF TRADE

In all efforts looking to the welfare and development of the District of Columbia and of Washington as a city befitting the Capital of the country, the Washington Board of Trade has for many years borne an important part and the benefits resulting from its deliberations and effective policies have passed into local and national history.

As a result of the unique form of government of the District of Columbia and of the fact that it has no direct representatives in Congress, the Board has been recognized by Congress and also by the Board of District Commissioners as voicing public opinion upon matters concerning the essential needs of the District and its citizens from municipal and national standpoints.

In this organization has been met the long recognized need of a properly constituted body of representatives and public spirited citizens from all parts of the District, of every business and profession, unselfishly interested in the health, prosperity and advancement of the National Capital.

Among the things toward which the Board has bent its efforts are:

Abolition of grade crossings and placing overhead wires underground; completion of the sewerage and sewage disposal systems; widening and deepening the channel of the river; reclamation of the Anacostia Flats; preparation and enactment of the Code of Law for the District; furthering the Park Commission Plans for the future development and beautification of Washington; increase and filtration of our water supply; fire-proof buildings for public schools and approval of the maintenance of National Guards throughout the country.

The Board is also constantly interested in maintaining the proper and lawful status of the District in its financial relations with the Federal Government.

Being the Capital City of the greatest nation in the world, Washington with its many points of historic interest, Government buildings, and beautiful and picturesque parks and driveways, is second to none as a Convention City. The Washington Board of Trade extends to all a most cordial invitation to "Come to Washington, The City Beautiful, Your Capital."

STREET CAR LINES OPERATED BY WASHINGTON RAILWAY AND ELECTRIC COMPANY

The Washington Railway and Electric Company operates the principal street railway system in the District of Columbia, having a total trackage of 177 miles, reaching all parts of the District and also nearby points in Maryland.

Below is given in detail the routing of various lines and by means of the reference key on the map page one can tell the line to tak to reach any particular place of interest, the assumption being, that the patron is already in the central part of the City:

Georgetown-Lincoln Park Line operates between 14th and East Capitol Streets and Cabin John Bridge, passing the Library of Congress, Capitol, Senate Office Building, Courthouse, Pension Office, Patent Office, principal hotels, through the shopping and business district of the City—F Street—to Georgetown, where is located Georgetown University, continuing from Georgetown along the Potomac River affording an unsurpassed view of the Palisades and Little Falls as far as Cabin John Bridge, Md., passing Glen Echo Park, Washington's only free admission amusement park and open from May 15th to September 10th.

Mt. Pleasant Line operates to Mt. Pleasant by alternate cars from 13th and D Streets N. E.

and 1st and E Streets S. E., the lines joining at Union Station. This line passes the War Risk Bureau, Shoreham Hotel, New Willard and New Ebbitt Hotels and within one block of the Washington Hotel, the Patent Office, Pension Office, City Post Office and Union Station; 1st and E Streets S. E. line also passes the Capitol, Senate and House Office Buildings and the Library of Congress. The Mt. Pleasant Line operates through the principal business and residential section of the City, passing the Harvard Street entrance of Rock Creek Park and Zoo, which is one of the most complete Zoological Parks in the country.

The line operating between Somerset and Potomac Park passes the State, War and Navy Building, the Government Buildings in Potomac Park and within one block of the Pan-American Union Building. This line transfers at 17th and H Streets N. W. to the Georgetown-Lincoln Park and the Mt. Pleasant lines.

Celumbia Line operates between the Treasury at 15th and New York Avenue N. W., and the District Line and Kenilworth, passing the Public Library and Government Printing Office.
